Toll Servicing Tsunami Relief Effort

Toll Holdings, Australia's leading provider of integrated transport and logistics services, today confirmed its initial contribution to the tsunami relief effort of $350,000:

- $150,000 - Transport and warehousing services to World Vision
- $100,000 - Cash donation to World Vision
- $100,000 - Staff fund raising and logistics services via other aid agencies

$350,000 Total

Toll's managing director Paul Little is committed to assisting where possible with the company's logistics services. "World Vision was best placed to accept our 'in kind' capabilities of transport and logistics services – and we have already moved many consignments of donated goods from around Australia to World Vision's Melbourne warehouse for shipment to South East Asia.

"In addition, our Thailand business has been utilising bulk liquid tankers, to supply fresh water to people in need in the affected area of Phuket. Shell is kindly working with Toll on this initiative.

"It's truly humbling to see the enormous generosity of people worldwide in this time of great need, including our valued and committed employees and customers who have proactively arranged fund raising initiatives."

Discussions are also in place between Toll and World Vision regarding other activities including storage, consolidation and export services, as well as management support.
